MEMPHIS APPEAL

SATURDAY MORNING, PEB. 7, 1874. NO NEW, BUT THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY. We regret that some of our State pavague and indefinite opposition to the viewing it only as a temporary effort to illness. He was a member of the celetlemen have heretofore offered as their all vices should, in the family and the his charities, excuse for opposing or giving only church, and through organized societies a lukewarm support to the Demo- who labor by persuasion and not by cratic party. Is it not about force, time that this sort of thing had come to an end? What is there in the word "Democrat" to deter men from the endorsement of a platform or candidates that may accord with their convictions, or be acceptable to them. It is by principles that men are to be held together, and not by names. The Democratic is the only party now confronting Radicalism. It has organization, and affords a shelter to every citizen who would have the country released from the grasp of the Radicals, who have made themselves odious by their thefts and repressive laws. It has withstood this party during the past eight years, and, though in the minority, has prevented excesses that might have plunged us into another revolt. Slowly but surely it has been making its way, and recovering the place it once filled in the hearts of the people, and in several of the States is, much to the joy of a majority of their people, in possession of their governments, proving its title to public confidence by its moderation and conservative course. The Democratic party is neither dead nor sleeping. It is as active as ever, and is the only party through which we can hope to achieve any victories over Radi- fliching from the treasury." calism. To attempt its subversion in favor of a party under the name "conservative" would be a blunder almost very properly regards the Nashville and criminal. It would lead to distraction Chattanooga railroad company one of and division, and most certainly insure the domination in our State of paid within the past two months, in the Republican party, never more cash, for its first series of bonds, issued thoroughly organized in Tennessee than now, and never more hopeful. No man, connected with the city government, better understands the value of technical education than Mayor Loague, and few men, anywhere, are more exacting in the requirement of duty. A hard-worker and thoroughly systematic, he is able to prize in others the ability to do things in the shortest time and with the method that is only acquired by long practice and a perfect knowledge of routine, we therefore look to him, although in the police board he is but one of three, to enforce the suggestions of Chief Athy, so that the police may continue to improve in efficiency. As to the yellow-fever fund we would suggest that it be made the nucleus of a permanent fund, to be increased by a monthly subscription from each member, from which may be drawn support for the sick or maimed of the force, and the means of decent interment when phans of the brave fellows who died at their posts of danger last fall should continue to receive the attention their necessities demand. On the whole, we like this report of Chief Athy, and feel warranted in saying that it fully confirms the public opinion of one of the best officers Memphis has ever known, in any capacity, or of any grade. THE TEMPERANCE PURORE.

The "unco guide" women of Ohio are just now indulging in a paroxysm of righteousness. It has taken the form of a war on the whisky-shops, in front of which they erect booths, or, as they call them, "tabernacles," wherein they sing hymns and pray so loud as to make pleasure impossible to the habitues of those concerns. So far, this madness, fol-ly, or religious frenzy has been attended with some results, such as those who are other than English are taught cannot be indulging in it desire. In many towns legally maintained by city or State. the saloons have been closed. Of course for the time being only, for when the women give up the tabernacle business the doors will be opened; and unless all past experience goes for nothing, there will be more drunkenness and greater excesses than ever. He responded in his paper, the Southern Shield, and defended the fair fame and good name of his sire with commendable zeal, and, we must say, with great good taste. He says: "Judge Underwood has been a resident of Helena for over thirty years, and has fulfilled the duties of a private citizen in a respectable and commendatory manner.
